Sailor in Caustie Terms.

PHILADELPHIA, June 10.-James J. Jeffries, the new champion fighter, appeared at the Academy of Music here to-night before a packed house, a notable feature be ing the large number of women present. Jeffries boxed three rounds with his sparring partner, Jim Daly, of this city. William A. Brady, Jeffries' manager, read from the stage a challenge to light Tom Sharkey about September 15 for the largest purse offered by any club and a $10,000 side bet. He stipulated that the entire purse go to the winner and that no side agreements or secret arrangements be considered, and that the sailor must agree to George Siler as referee. The contest, he asserted, must take place in an eighteenfoot ring. Mr. Brady was very caustic and called Sharkey a "blowhard," accusing him of having robbed Fitzsimmons of the decision in their fight two years ago. Jeffries had little to say regarding his victory over Fitzsimmons. "I feel a bit sore about the shoulders," he said, "but beyond that I am all right."

Asked whom he was likely to meet next, he said: "I am not particular whom I meet, but I would like to meet that talk. ing the large number of women present

Asked whom he was likely to meet next, he said: "I am not particular whom I meet, but I would like to meet that talkative tar, Sharkey. I'll fight him for charity just to show the people that he does not know how to fight."

AFTERMATH OF THE FIGHT. Fitzsimmons Gives Jeffries All the Credit and May Ask for Another "Go."

NEW YORK, June 10.-George Siler, who refereed the Jeffries-Fitzsimmons fight. said in an interview:

"It was a nice, clean, straight away fight. with no attempt on either side to foul. Both men seemed to do their best to avoid any violation of the rules. Of course, when big men like these get tired there is more or less clinching. In my opinion Jeffries had a shade the best of it for the last seven rounds. Jeffries is unquestionably a young man of remarkable strength. It was a good fight from start to finish and the best Ex-Champion Robert Fitzsimmons said to a World correspondent: "I fully ex-pected to win, but I did not. Jeffrics won cause he was the best man. I could not believe that he had improved so much. He is young, strong, quick and clever. I have no excuse to make on the score of condition and over confidence. I was in perfect trim, better than I really ever was before and I fought the best I could. Whereas I fully expected to win, I did not hold my man cheap. That is something I was nevergulity of. Jeffries is now the champion of the world beyond question, and is entitled to all the praise that may be showered upon him. He won the title fairly and squarely and he now has a chance to make a great deal of money. Let him go ahead and get it and I for one will not molest him for the present. Of course, I may challenge him, but it was all so sudden that and over confidence. I was in perfect trim, knew that he had it in him though he was then limmature. Flizsimmons would not fight me. But in Jeffries I got the man who, I knew, could defeat him. Jeffries was never in danger. When I went to his room before the battle I told him to go in and fight as soon as the gong rang. I told him if Flizsimmons would not fight in the first round to go at him. He did it. In the third round he had Flizsimmons going. It was a splendid battle and Jeffries did the fighting. This proves what I have always said—that a good boxer with a good left hand could defeat Flizsimmons. Jeffries possesses all the qualities of a great boxer. He is competent to defend his proud title against any fighter on earth. He does not lack ring science nor generalship. The light showed he was quicker than Flizsimmons."

Kid McCoy said: "The fight went longer than I expected to see it. It is needless to say that I was greatly surprised at Jeffries' wonderful improvement. He proved himself more scientific, quicker and with better judgment than I had anticipated." "Flizsimmons, who is one of the cieverest fighters and best generals in the ring, the fight is the fight in the fight so worked so hard for.—Mother."

'Fitzsimmons, who is one of the clever-est fighters and best generals in the ring, should have won the right. It was a mag-nificent battle, and at the start it looked as if Fitzsimmons would win it. I looked or a shorter tight. "If I were asked what made Fitzsimmons lose, I would say simply, Jeffries. He proved himself a great fighter and will defend his title. The fight itself showed the evident fact that a very clever man at 157 pounds is no match for a very clever man at 210.

"I had no idea that so big a man as Jeffries could be so fast. I was not less surprised at his gameness. In the seventh and eighth rounds, when things looked bad for Jeffries, he came back quickly. The severe punishment seemed to whet his appetite rather than to discourage him.

"The first few rounds of the fight, barring the first knockdown, were Fitzsimmons."

Almost every man can come back after s He is still middleweight champion of the world."

Champion Jeffries said: "The fight was never for a moment in doubt so far as I was concerned. I knew what I could do when I entered the ring, and I grew more confident every moment from the time the gong first sounded. gong first sounded.

"Fitzsimmons never hurt me but once, and that was a hard blow in the left eye. His body blows did not have near the force they may have seemed to. In my estimation I had the best of every round.

"Fitzsimmons was a good, clean fighter, and probably the best man of his weight in the country, if not in the world. I wish him all success for the future.

"I believe I am the best man in the world and I am willing to defend the title which I have won."

I have won."

After the knockout blow had been dealt Chief of Police Devery jumped to the outer edge of the ring and waited for the referee to count the fatal tenth second. He stepped into the ring then and his men surrounded it. He was asked in the ring by a reporter whether in accordance with his leclaration of a few days ago, he would arrest the principals.

"Wait a few moments and we will see."

arrest the principals.

"Wait a few moments and we will see." he replied. And then as he saw that Fitz-simmons had recovered sufficiently to sit up and answer the greeting and handshake Jeffries offered him. he added: "No there will be no arrests. Fitzsimmons is all right now and the law has not been violated. He is as well as when he entered the ring: according to the report of Dr. Creamer, who examined him; so an arrest is not necessary."

"I wish it to be said, and said distinctly, that neither Mr. McLaurhlin nor any other man made me change my ordinon regarding the stand I took two days before the fight. I would have stopped the fight in a minute if I had seen anything that was a violation of the law."

Fitzsimmons Writes to a Personal Friend, Telling Him of His Fears.

CINCINNATI, O., June 10.-Leonard Shila personal friend of Bob Fitzsimmons, some days ago received the following letter from the prize fighter. It shows plainly that Fitzsimmons feared defeat at the hands of Jeffries and had evidently warned all his friends against placing too much confidence in the outcome of the battle on Friday night:

"Mr. Leonard Shilly.

"Dear Sir:—Knowing you have been an ardent admirer of mine in the past, and thinking that you probably will have confidence in my ability as a puglilist, I write to you, as I am doing to all my close friends, in order that their faith in me be not abused. You no doubt are well aware of the fact that I am getting along in years and have for a long time been living a life of ease and quiet, and, as the saying is, have not kept up with the times.

"My opponent, Mr. Jeffries, I must admit, is without a peer in our profession to-day and I would consider it no disgrace to meet defeat at his hands. He has youth, science, strength and courage, and, in my opinion, should have no trouble to defend the title (should he gain it) from any man of the present time. You must understand that I say this confidentially, and would of course not make public a statement of this kind, and I further am sure that you would not make use of this unless it be for your individual benefit. statement of this kind, and I further am sure that you would not make use of this unless it be for your individual benefit.

"My object in writing this letter is: You may be a betting man and, like a great many more, may have a stubborn idea that I am invincible. If such be the case you might bet recklessly. I would advise you to be careful and not bet on general results. I will certainly do my best and hope to gain the victory.

"I feel safe in saying that I will remain five or ten rounds, and if my usual good luck does not desert me I will certainly win the fight. Hoping that you will appreciate my letter of caution, I remain, Your sincere friend.

Eccentric Manila Hero.

From the New York World. From the New York World.

Among those who fell in action at Manila recently was Sergeant Morris J. Cohen, of the Twentleth Kansas volunteers. The cabled announcement of his death gives no details, but his friends say he was a gallant soldier and when all is known he will be found to have met a gallant soldier's death. Cohen was a soldier from boyhood, and served nine years in the First infantry, U. S. A.

Last summer he returned home, and in a spirit of adventure wagered a friend $200 that he could wheel a barrow overland to San Francisco.

He and a chum made the start together from New York, trundling the barrow. Cohen never reached his home again.

The two men won their wager, reaching Prisco on time, and a week later started for home.

They reached Kansas when the call for volunteers was issued. Cohen dropped his barrow and enlisted with the Kansas boys. He was made a sergeant, and salled with his command from San Francisco for Manila, where he met his death.

The Spanish Soldier.

From the Providence Journal. From the Providence Journal.

The Spanish soldier has been distinguished for his sobriety at all periods in his country's history. If victorious he is never passionately proud of his achievements, though he may often be extremely cruel. If defeated he bears his ill fortune calmly, seldiom or never "growling" as the American though he may often be extremely cruel. If defeated he bears his ill fortune calmly, seldom or never "growling," as the American soldier is said to do at all times except in battle, and never criticising his officers. He has maintained his reputation for this sober nature during the whole Spanish war and in his last contest in the Philippines. The termination of the siege of Zamboanga has illustrated this. Though shut in at that place for a whole year, the little garrison has quietly fought on from month to month, its commanding officer, General Montero, apparently controlling his men as effectively as if he had been winning victories or as if relief were certain to come before long. At the very last General Montero was slain. A man who can night so long deserved another fate, provided simple steadfastness in the hour of danger constitutes real bravery.

CINCINNATI, June 19.—T. C. McDowell's entry. Spirituelle and Batten, made a head finish for the big purse in the Cincinnati Hotel handleap to-day. It was an unusual sight for the spectators to see two horses from the same stable, coupled in the betting, fighting head and head through the stretch, but the jockeys were given orders to go out and do their best with the pair, and they followed instructions. Crowhurst was away in front with Spirituelle at the drop of the flag, and sent the filly along at a hot pace over the heavy track. Batten joined here after passing the half-mile pole, with Samovar only a short distance behind. Batten soon shook off Samovar, and Hill sat down to ride her out. Batten closed in on Spirituelle a hundred yards from the winning post, and both were under a fierce driving to the end. Batten made a gallant bid in the last few strides, but could not quite reach, and Spirituelle was awarded the decision. Samovar was beaten ten lengths by the second horse. The distance, a mile and a sixteenth, was run in 1:494, Starter Chim caused a big howl to go up from the betting public in the opening race by leaving three horses at the post, including Finem Respice, the favorite. Weather pleasant: track slow: betting good. Summaries:

BIRD'S EGG COLLECTOR.

Some Suggestions for Home Made Paraphernalia as Serviceable as Any You Can Buy.

From the New York Herald.

Now is the harvest time for all those who make a study of birds' nests and the collection of birds' eggs. If you have not already obtained a pipette for taking out the inside of the egg you should do so at once, as much of the value of the small egg is lost if two holes are made in blow-sung and what inscription shall be carved on the headstone.

It is very rarely one finds a man who keeps awake at nights arranging the programme for his own obsequies. As a rule the subject possesses no attraction for him. He prefers not to think about it. Which just shows what cowards men are!

Five years ago a certain widow made a provision in her will that she should be interred in the same grave as her late lamented husband. Two years later she married again, and that, of course, necessitated a change in her will. Now she is a widow once more, and her lawyer is expecting to hear from her every day.

A Critical Moment.

From the Detroit Free Press. From the Detroit Free Press.

"That son-in-law of yours is a cool one," remarked one Griswold street banker to another, "and has a long head for business. Does he ever get rattled?"

"Oh, he has his limit like the rest of us. When he asked me for my daughter, he was so comfuddled that he kissed me and shook hands with the girl."
